

SOME STARS TO BE SEEN HERE IN PLAYS AND FILMS NEXT WEEK

Plays for the Coming Week

MONDAY NIGHT.
Knickerbocker Theatre—"Angel Face."

Theatre Parisian—"Les Bleus de l'Amour."

TUESDAY NIGHT.
Broadhurst Theatre—Jane Cowl in "Smilin' Through."

AT the Knickerbocker Theatre on Monday night George W. Ledner will present "Angel Face," with music by Victor Herbert, book by Harry R. Smith, and lyrics by Robert B. Smith. The title role will be played by an "unknown," for whom theatre-goers are asked to suggest a name.

"Les Bleus de l'Amour," a comedy by Romaine Coolus, will be the next bill at the Theatre Parisian. The story concerns the sophistication of a young man who is pressed into service as a matrimonial aspirant.

Jane Cowl comes to the Broadhurst Theatre on Tuesday night in "Smilin' Through," a fantastic play by Allan Langdon Martin that presents the star in both modern costumes and the hoop-skirts of fifty years ago. Supporting cast includes Charles Cawood, Harry Stephen, Ethelbert Hale, Charlotte Granville, Elaine Innescourt, Philip Tongue and Marion Bertram.

The Friars' Frolic will be repeated at the Lexington Theatre to-morrow night.

The musical comedy, "Nothing but Love," will be the attraction at the Shubert-Riviera Theatre.

The Bronx Opera House will have "The Crimson Alibi."

The Corse Payton company at the Lexington Theatre will present "Nothing but the Truth."
